9:43 p.m.

I wrote a proper code for the unit testing in a separate document called `unittesting.py`. I added the file to my GitHub.

I worked on this week's stuff for about three hours. I haven't really had the time to work on the project that much this week.

I also watched videos on exactly what is meant by test coverage so I could edit the Testing Document attached in GitHub. I'll make the edits next week.

You haven't given any feedback for last week's report. Could you also let me know if there's anything else I should add or if I'm missing something?
